

Consideration of legal interventions

Public Interest

In normal circumstances, we do not consider that it is in the public interest to instigate or pursue legal action against a parent with whom a child resides in cases where an estranged parent takes a child out of school for the purpose of a holiday.